NATIONAL GUARD CAPTAINS QUIT

(Special Bulletin Correspondence.) Captain Johnson, Federal inspector of the National Guard, has been on Maui inspecting and instructing Companies I of Wailuku and L of Lahaina. Commanders W. E. Bal and S. Kellinoh both speak very highly of Captain Johnson's style of imparting useful information in both close and open order drills. Captain Johnson left Tuesday afternoon for the Mauna Kea to inspect the Hilo company, and is expected back in Honolulu by next Tuesday's claudine.

Captains Bal and Kellinoh have tendered their resignations to the National Guard headquarters in Honolulu, but so far have received no word. Captain Bal has been in command of Company I for over ten years, and both he and Captain Kellinoh have shown their readiness to answer the call of duty, as evidenced when the Japanese laborers of the Pioneer mill, at Lahaina, showed defiance of the majesty of the law; and it would be hard to find men to fill their places. It is understood that one of the reasons why the Maui commanders are relinquishing their commands is because new accouterments for the men do not come with the same regularity as the Honolulu companies have been wont to be supplied. The men wear out the uniforms and new ones are expected to take the places of the worn out ones. Captain Keola, whom Captain Bal succeeded, had to pay over $60 just because the men wore out their uniforms and failed to return them to headquarters when requested, but the money paid was fully recovered, because the company had proved its usefulness to the community in times of emergency.

MAUI WOMAN IS STRANGE FANATIC

WAILUKU, Maui, March 2.—Mrs. Napaeae, a Hawaiian woman, living at Lahaina, became imbued with an overabundance of religious enthusiasm — and by that we do not mean religion — and in her exuberance she forced her immediate family to do all sorts of fool things.

In the family was a married daughter, and because of her physical condition, these fanatical doings of the mother had drawn the attention of the community. The daughter had recently given birth to a child, and when the husband told them they were not worshipping God but idols, he was driven from the house. Later when the child was about a week old the grandmother decided it should be baptized. She started the family at about midnight, and everybody walked to the church to see the child baptized. Next came the cutting down of trees about the house.

The final action of this eccentric woman was when she decreed that the entire family must take a cold plunge in the morning. This no doubt was a good thing for those in good health, but for the young mother it was too much, and she died Saturday morning. The week-old baby had died Friday evening. The dead woman had been in poor health before the baby came, but there is no doubt in the minds of many Lahaina residents that the unusual and unnecessary exposure hurried her to her grave.

Philip Manana, formerly interpreter in the marriage license bureau in New York, was put to death by electricity in Sing Sing prison for the murder of his daughter about a year ago.

Others may circulate papers but the Bulletin is admitted to have the largest circulation.

KONA WILL FIGHT THE FLY

Kona will put up a fight against the Mediterranean fruit fly that will be worth while.

The Kona Civic Club, of which Mr. T. C. White is president, held a meeting during the week and laid plans for a thorough quarantining of the district against the fruit fly by land and sea. The fly has appeared in Kona, so the Kona people have reason to be on guard along the land routes as well as the ocean lines of travel. Mr. White is a live wire and he has the people thoroughly interested.

FERN SAYS STORY IS FALSE

of the speakers, gave the following signed statement to the Bulletin: "Mayor Fern is not a candidate for Delegate to Congress. He will support L. L. McCandless for the Democratic nomination and for election if nominated. He advises all of his friends to support McCandless. The threatened split between Fern and McCandless has been all healed now."

(Signed) "CHARLES BARRON." When Mayor Fern was asked if the statement was true, he said emphatically that it is false, and intimated that Barron had better look out or something more forcible than words will be coming his way.

"I have not said that I am not a candidate," he declared. "I told those at the precinct meeting last night that it is all up to the convention, and that if the convention names McCandless, loyal Democrats would support him. I told the voters if they preferred McCandless to vote for him."

Meanwhile, a number of the McCandless men were spreading the story, apparently, and doing it industriously. McCandless himself does not seem to be one of those carrying the yarn, but his followers certainly are. True or not, the story is being used for all it is worth.

Another Bone. The other thing that is stirring up the fire is that a number of the more conservative Democrats have heard on good authority that the McCandless platform this year will again contain an anti-immigration plank. This was the rock on which the Democrats split at the last campaign.

Last night T. J. Ryan, one of the leaders in the work for McCandless, declared at the precinct meeting that he favors much the same platform from top to bottom as was put out two years ago.

This morning he was asked by the Bulletin if this statement means that he favors taking up immigration again, and he answered that it does.

Immigration Again. "I am not sure that the plank will be just the same," he said, "but we are not going to repudiate our platform of last campaign because a few people in the party, as against many, think we ought."

"The immigration abuses aren't as bad as they were, but the radical Democrats will certainly not back down on this fight against so much immigration."

From a well-informed Democrat this morning came the information that the McCandless platform is being written now with a plank in it dealing with the immigration question on much the same terms as McCandless dealt with it two years ago, but this could not be confirmed from Mr. McCandless himself.

The precinct meeting last night several times grew pretty warm. Some of the criticisms made of Mayor Fern and Rivenburgh were so strong that when Fern was asked to speak he got up and said that he hardly knew what to say inasmuch as he had been insulted in speeches already made.

MRS. J. S. M'GREW HEALTH FAILING

Mrs. C. B. Cooper received a cablegram today from J. Tarn McGrew who is in Paris, stating that Mrs. J. S. McGrew is steadily failing in health. Mrs. Cooper will therefore plan to proceed direct to Paris instead of remaining in California, as she had originally planned. Mrs. Cooper and her three children will leave on the Honolulu Wednesday, the children remaining with friends in California.

Dr. Cooper will leave on the next transport for a two months' tour of duty at the United States Field Service School to be held at Fort Leavenworth. During Dr. Cooper's absence his practice will be in charge of Dr. J. H. Raymond and Dr. Benz.

CHAUFFEUR, HURT IN ACCIDENT, IS PARALYZED

HILO, Hawaii, Feb. 29.—Joe Martin de Santos, the Volcano Stables chauffeur who was fearfully injured a week ago last Sunday when Engineer Garden of Hamana contributed to the wreck of a machine containing nine people, and the injury of five of the passengers, through his inebriated skylarking with the mechanism while Martin was driving, still lies paralyzed from the waist down in the Hilo hospital.

The doctors are doing all that is possible. The verdict is with nature. A slight improvement has been noticed in that the patient has moved his head with less inconvenience. He uses his arms freely, frequently swinging them up to grasp hold of the head of the bed. He suffers little pain. All nether functions have to be carried out artificially. He is allowed visitors and his family and friends call on him daily. He talks freely. He tells the story of the accident without any appearance of hiding anything. He says that Garden was constantly interfering with his handling of the machine and that the accident which overturned the car was caused by Garden's monkeying with the steering gear and the mechanism generally.

GOLF POPULAR AT KAHULUI

WAILUKU, Mar. 2.—The golf links at Kahului presented an animated appearance on Saturday afternoon last, the occasion being the opening of the links.

A marquee, prettily decorated with flags, served as a rendezvous for refreshments delicately prepared by the ladies of the club.

The opening drives were made by Messrs. Penhallow and Thompson respectively, following which a bevy of ladies and gentlemen played in doubles and foursomes.

A pleasing feature of the afternoon's sport was the keenness and adaptability evinced by the players, notwithstanding the condition of the links, which are not conducive to the showing of one's best form.

WOMAN WHO TRIED SUICIDE TO LEAVE HILO

HILO, Feb. 29.—Mrs. Angie Neece, who attempted suicide a week ago Sunday, believing that her husband, a conductor in the Hilo Railroad, has turned his affections elsewhere, is reported out of danger and it is expected that she will soon leave the hospital to go to Honolulu for a while.

It is understood that her position as operator at the Hilo telephone exchange is open when she desires to return to work there. Mrs. Neece is an excellent operator.

The husband has called frequently to see his wounded wife at the hospital, and there are indications of a reconciliation.

Soon after Mrs. Neece attempted to end her life by shooting, it was brought to the attention of the authorities that an investigation would doubtless reveal the circumstances which led up to the affair, but it develops that there will probably be no inquisition, which fact will doubtless relieve the anxiety of persons indirectly involved.

Three indictments were returned by the United States grand jury at Los Angeles, against alleged smugglers of opium and Chinese, one of them being Mrs. Ethel Hall, frequently referred to as the "Queen of the Smuggling Ring," chief executive.
